"A MOTHER'S LOVE."

At McKissick's Opera House Tomorrow Night.

The Evansville Journal says: "For once newspaper notices have told strictly the truth about an actress, and Miss Helen Blythe proved to be last night all that the press represented her. Miss Blythe appeared last night for the first time in Evansville, and before a large audience who appreciated her to the echo, and called her before the curtain after every act, and wanted to recall her at the close of the play. The great charm of this lady's acting is the earnest manner in which she enters into her work, and we had last night an artist in our midst.
"Mother's Love" is a charming play, full of beautiful, pure sentiment, without a word to offend the most fastidious, and whilst it is purely emotional in its character, the comedy is so skillfully blended that before the tear can fall, the smile comes to chase it away."

A TEST OF DEATH.

Simple Method of Determining
If Life is Extinct.

Following is the simple method for determining whether life is extinct or not in a human being apparently dead, for which the French Academy of Sciences paid the discoverer a reward of 40,000 francs: If the hand of the supposed dead person is held toward a candle or other artificial light, with the fingers extended and one touching the other, and one looks through the spaces between the fingers toward the light, there appears a scarlet color where the fingers touch each other, due to the blood still circulating, it showing itself through the tissues which have not yet coagulated. When life is extinct the phenomenon of scarlet space between the fingers at once ceases. The most extensive and thoroughly tried method of determining the vitality of the above method for determining if the vital spark is extinguished.

How to Treat the Eyes.

Once or twice a week, at least, bathe the eyes in salt and water; and occasionally, where the eyes are dull, a little orange-peel juice squeezed in them at night will give them brilliancy without injury. Belladonna only as a beautifier should be absolutely avoided. It gives a large brilliant look to the eyes for a time at the expense of every healthful function.
Oculists are occasionally compelled to use it, but except when under the care of a specialist it should never be touched. Never strain the eyes on rising. Do not read before eating.
Tired eyes may be bathed in a solution of alum and rose-water, and an early sleep be taken to restore their brilliancy.

Becoming Cheaper.

Puck says: "It is reported that a large number of English noblemen are coming to America to escape criminal prosecution and imprisonment. If this is true it may save several American hordes the expense and annoyance of a trip across the ocean."

able Death Rate.

A COUNTERFEITER SENTENCED.

The Spanish King Low With the Influenza.

Wide Scope of the American-Canadian Treaty.

An Extraordinary Death Rate.

By Associated Press.]

New York, Jan. 9.—La grippe is spreading in this city, as shown by yesterday's mortality list, which records 250 deaths up to noon. This is the biggest number known in the history of the health department in 24 hours during a winter month, and is more than in any summer month since July 2, 1872, when 351 deaths occurred, sixty-eight of which were from sunstroke. Four of yesterday's deaths were due directly to influenza, three of whom were men aged 42, 47 and 70 years respectively, and a two-months-old baby that had not been well nursed; sixty died from pneumonia, forty-two from consumption and twenty-six from bronchitis. In the case of fifteen adults, influenza was thought to have contributed to the cause of death. Of the 250 deaths yesterday 147, or seventy-five per cent, were due to influenza to some extent. The death list for the week so far is as follows: Sunday, 200; Monday, 146; Tuesday, 235; Wednesday, 290; total, 839. There are ninety bodies in the morgue.

New York, Jan. 9.—The number of deaths during the twenty-four hours ending at noon to-day were 207, a decrease of forty-three compared with the preceding twenty-four hours. Of these, twenty-four are attributed to consumption, twenty-two to bronchitis, sixty-three to pneumonia and fourteen to influenza.

No Hope of His Recovery.

By Cable and Associated Press.]

MADRID, Jan. 9.—The illness of the infant King has assumed a most alarming phase. During the night he had convulsions and a high fever, and he is extremely weak. The Royal physicians have but little if any hope of his recovery. At two o'clock this morning it seemed as though he was dead, but he subsequently rallied. Senor Sagasta, Prime Minister, has been summoned to the palace, where he is awaiting the end. Alfonso XIII of Spain is the posthumous son of Alfonso XII. He was born May 17, 1886, and is therefore 3 years, 8 months and 23 days old. He was proclaimed King on the day of his birth, with his mother as Queen regent. The official Gazette says the King was quiet during the early part of the night, although feverish. His fever decreased later in the night, enabling His Majesty to secure some sleep, but at two o'clock in the morning he suffered a partial relapse, which has not yet entirely passed.

Evening.—The King was able to take some broth this afternoon, but his condition is still dangerous.

Influenza is spreading in this city.

American-Canadian Treaty.

By Associated Press.]

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—A Globe's Ottawa special says: "A copy of the proposed extradition treaty between the United States and Great Britain has been received by the Minister of Justice. The scope of the proposed treaty is very wide in contrast with the treaty of 1842, which contains only four offences. If the pending treaty is adopted, legislation by the Dominion Parliament will be necessary to bring Canada under its provisions."

New York, Jan. 9.—A cocking main against Pennsylvania, was fought near Philadelphia in the presence of forty high rollers. It is said that $400,000 was represented by those present.

The main was for $500 for each battle, and $5,000 for the odd fight. The Pennsylvania birds won.

Proceedings of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Vice-President laid before the Senate a communication from the Attorney-General in response to the resolution adopted by the Senate yesterday. The Attorney-General states that no instructions, oral or written, were given District Attorney Chambers on the subject of the arrest of W. W. Dudley.
No communication, says the Attorney-General, was sent by the Department of Justice to the District Attorney of Indiana, nor any received from him, directly or indirectly, with reference to the subject.

Dolph, from the Committee on Commerce, reported back the bill for the construction of a revenue cutter for service on the Pacific coast; also a bill to prevent the obstruction of navigable waters of the United States.

Frye, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill for the erection of a first order lighthouse at Cape Disappointment, Washington.

Call called up his resolution directing the Secretary of the Interior to report all the evidence of the General Land Office relating to swamp lands in Florida, upon which the commissioner of that office based the charge of fraud in the selection of such lands.
Call took the position that there has been no fraudulent selection. Pending action on the resolution, the Senate went into secret session and adjourned until Monday.

At a meeting of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs to-day the reply of Commissioner Morgan to the charges filed against him by Father Stephen, Director of the Catholic Board of Missions, was presented and read. At the conclusion of the discussion which followed, the committee, by a vote of six to one, ordered the nomination of Thomas J. Morgan to be Indian Commissioner, and Dr. Dorchester to be Superintendent of Indian Schools reported favorably to the Senate.

Death-Dealing Windstorm.

By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, in Brooklyn, was wrecked this morning by a high wind. The debris lodged on a small house adjoining and killed or injured all the inmates, nine in number. Five were killed outright.

At 4:30 this morning one of the walls fell with a crash on a three-story frame building adjoining and brought it to death and destruction. The ruined building was tenanted by the Mott and Purdy families. They number nine persons, and five of them are reported dead. Two were carried out of the ruins so seriously injured that their death is only a question of a few hours.

The tenants in the little frame house adjoining were alarmed last night by the manner in which the church walls shook and rattled. Their own dwelling was considerably shaken, and it was with fear and trembling that they retired.

Twice during the night some of the inmates were aroused by the roaring winds, but every one was in bed and asleep when the disaster occurred.

The heavy brick walls of the church fell suddenly with a crash, and in a heap bore through the cockleshell structure adjoining like a battering ram. The dwelling seemed to part in two, and instantly the shrieks and groans of the injured startled the residents for blocks about. The house was torn in such a manner that a bedroom was exposed, and in the bed, which was within plain view of those in the street, lay the dead body of Mary Purdy, borne down beneath the mass of debris.

Later news show that only two,
Mary and David Purdy, young people, were killed and the others wounded.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Judge O'Brien, in the Supreme Court Chamber, heard the arguments of eminent counsel today on a motion of the National League of Base Ball Clubs to restrain John M.
Ward from playing with any other than the New York clubs. The motion was in reality a preliminary step to decide whether the word "reserve" stipulated that a man shall be subject to the call of the League for more than one year. Evans, Choate and Beaman appeared for the plaintiff, and Anderson and Howland for the defendant. There were a number of prominent ball-players present.

JUDGE BIGELOW has handed down an opinion which is of special interest to Virginia City and Gold Hill, and possibly some other towns of the State. A statute was passed in 1881, intended more especially for the benefit of Storey county, in which it was provided that all towns and cities accepting its provisions should commence suits in the name of the County Commissioners for the use and benefit of the citizens of the town. Reno, by legislation, is now governed by the same act, and recently commenced a prosecution under an ordinance following the precedent set by Virginia City, commenced an action in the name of the County Commissioners for the use and benefit of the citizens of the town of Reno. A conviction was had and the case was appealed. The Court has decided that the above form of action applies only to civil cases, not to criminal, which he held the prosecution under an ordinance is, and dismissed the appeal. The question is one of practical interest, and should be settled by the higher Court if possible.

ROBERT LEWERS has a communication in to-day's GAZETTE on Nevada's school fund. We are inclined to think school matters and the school fund were secondary considerations in the deliberations of the last Legislature, if, indeed, they were thought of at all. So anxious were a majority for a lottery that they overlooked every other important duty until nearly 40 days of the session were consumed, and the balance of the time was taken up in nursing their wrath at the defeat of the lottery amendment.

CHINESE are said to be making their way to the rural towns of Vermont. A great deal has been said of late years about the decadence of some parts of New England. It has always been considered "a good country to emigrate from." It will be time for a white exodus if Chinese competition shall be added to a hard soil and climate.

THE Boston Journal of the 30th ult. says: There are probably more persons ill in Boston at this writing than were ever known to be on the sick list at one time. When taken in time the gripe is not dangerous. Keep indoors, be as happy as you can and do not go out and take more cold because you feel a little better.

It appears that irrigation is likely to meet opposition from Eastern Senators. We have had to educate these gentlemen on the Chinese question. Must we now undertake to teach them that climatic conditions are different in some parts of the West?

THE Dominion Government proposes to give 100 acres of land to the father and mother of every family of twelve children born in lawful wedlock. On that proposition the French Canadians are likely to become the owners of the Dominion.

"The Angelus" is watched night and day in the hall where it hangs in New York, by a man whose duty it is, on an alarm of fire, to take the costly painting under his arm and make for the street.

THE Baltimore Committee of One Hundred has fixed upon $1,000 as the full retail license fee for that city. But their bill has yet to be passed by the Maryland Legislature.

THE Mayor of New York is determined, he says, to get hold of some man who can and will thoroughly clean the streets of that city.

THE Boston Herald publishes an interesting list of embezzlers for 1889, their embezzlements making a disgraceful total of $8,562,753.

AN Iowa case, involving the constitutionality of State prohibitory laws, is pending before the United States Supreme Court.

GOVERNOR WOODS DEAD.

Neither an Eventful Career Ended.
Ex-Governor George L. Woods died at Portland, Or., yesterday after a long and painful illness. Deceased was 58 years old. He went to Oregon in 1844; was a Presidential elector for Lincoln; was elected Governor of Oregon in 1866, and in 1871 was appointed Governor of Utah by President Grant. Since 1875 he has been living on the Pacific Coast practicing law. Governor Woods was quite well known here, he having been at one time President of the N. C. & O. Railroad Company. He was acting as President at the time when the row started by which Mr. Seoville was shot and killed and D. W. Balch was shot through the lungs. His success in politics was due to his oratorical power more than to anything else, for he was a man of no very strong convictions, but was more of an adventurer than anything else. He was a good fellow, however, and the GAZETTE regrets to chronicle his demise.

The Prince Says
In the closing scene: "Woman is not undeveloped man, but diverse; * * * yet in the long years like men must they grow—the man be more of woman, she, of man; he gain in sweetness and in moral height, nor lose the wrestling thews that throw the world; she, mental breadth, nor fail in household cares; self-reverent each, and reverencing each, distinct in individualities." (Singer on the stage in "The Princess," January 17th, for the benefit of the Reno Library.)

The Lily and Freddie.
The San Francisco Post says: Now let the world go around again as of yore, and the stars move in their appointed courses. Langtry and Gebhardt have made up their quarrel and are reconciled again. Just why the relations of a dude and an actress should be of so much interest it is not easy to say, but at least two continents follow every phase of the liaison with breathless interest.

Poor Humanity.
The common lot is one of sorrow say—at least—the pessimists, they who look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where inefficient or improper means are looking to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely superfluous-stiveness of the nerves, as well as dispels—as so-called— which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nervous gain strength from a rest to the trouble disappears. Use the Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney trouble.

For 25 years I suffered from boils, erysipelas and other blood affections taking during that time great quantities of different medicines without giving me any perceptible relief. Friends induced me to try S. S. S. It improved me from the start, and after taking several bottles, restored my health as far as I could hope for at my age, which is now seventy-five years.

Three Chapters that Contain a Sequel.

There are three chapters in the "Family Physician" which are worthy of special mention, namely, those on "Diseases of Women," "Lenses of Infants" and "Care of the Sick." The first of these is a model of its kind. It is chaste in language, contains no disgusting pictures for children to happen on and be over-curious about, and taken altogether is the most practical, sensible and straight-forward treatise upon this delicate subject that has ever been printed. This chapter alone is worth many times the cost of the book to every mother, even if it had to be purchased at its regular price. The other chapters referred to are equally well written and valuable. See "Our Plan" on 4th page.

I hereby certify that I have examined a work entitled "Our Family Physician," and find it to be correct in its diagnosis, and in my opinion, worthy of the confidence of the public. H. S. HARRIS, M. D.

I have examined the advance sheets of "Our Family Physician." It gives me pleasure to recommend the work as correct in its mode of treatment of disease, and it deserves wide circulation.

J. F. COOK, M. D., Professor in Bennett's Medical College, Chicago.

After examining the publication "Our Family Physician" I can fully endorse the opinions expressed of its merits by the above gentlemen. H. A. GUNN, M. D., Professor of the Burnett Medical College.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklin's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merit. Wm. Finlinger, druggist.

The Best There Is.

NEVADA SCHOOL FUND.

What Might be Accomplished if the Idle Fund was Drawing Interest.

EDITOR GAZETTE: Nevada has at the present time $305,044 belonging to the school fund lying idle in the treasury vaults awaiting investment. To the casual observer this does not mean much, but to the School Trustee and the teacher it means shortened terms and reduced salaries. It means that the schools of the State are deprived of from $9,000 to $20,000 a year, or from $1 to $2 for every census child. This amount would go far towards making up Storey county's loss of 600 school census children in the last year, and would materially add to the school fund of every county in the State.

The coming January apportionment of the State school fund will probably be nearly $3 50 per census child. Would it not look better to have it $4 or even $5, as it would undoubtedly be if the money now lying idle were put at interest? Who is responsible for this state of affairs? The State Board of Education naturally comes in for a full share of the blame, but this is wholly undeserved when we consider the circumstances.

The law enacted in accordance with the amendment to the Constitution of the State passed at the eleventh session of the Nevada Legislature, authorizing the State Board of Education to invest the school fund in bonds of other States, was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court in January, 1887.

The last Legislature, as an evidence of its friendship for the public schools, submitted to the voters of the State at the special election held February 11, 1889, an amendment providing for the investment of the school fund in United States bonds, or the bonds of this State, or the bonds of other States of the Union. We were told that this special election was called for the express purpose of submitting this amendment, and that the lottery amendment was merely an incidental one. The school amendment was adopted by a vote of the people, and although it contained the express words "The Legislature shall provide for the investment of all proceeds derived from any of the above mentioned sources, in United States bonds, or bonds of this State, or the bonds of other States of the Union," the Legislature utterly failed to introduce or pass any act whatever to carry the provisions of this amendment into effect. Yet, the investment of the school fund was the professed object, the ostensible reason for calling the special election of February 11, 1889.

Thus it appears that the State Board is restricted to U. S. bonds and Nevada bonds in its investment of the surplus fund. The more profitable bonds of other States are excluded from the available list; the U. S. bonds, purchased at a premium and bearing low rates of interest, are not inviting and Nevada State bonds are practically out of the question.

This blunder of the legislators in allowing the money to lie idle in the treasury is a more costly one by far to the schools and school children of the State than the special election was.

The interest on the sum now tied up in the treasury can never be made up. It is simply a dead loss, and all through neglect. Yours respectfully, ROBT. LEWERS, Dayton, Nev., Jan. 7, 1890.

Roast Beef by the Carcass.

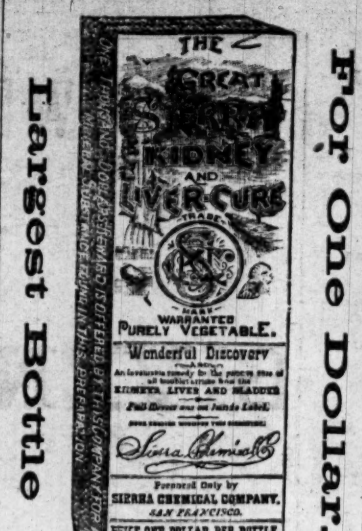

This morning at about 1:30 the town was aroused by a fire alarm, which was caused by the burning of W. S. Bailey's slaughtering establishment on the river east of town, which, with twenty-one carcasses of beef and a couple of hogs, was entirely consumed. About 100 hogs inclosed in a pen next to the main building were saved by Jack Fraser, who was the first man at the fire, and who tore down the fence and allowed the porkers to escape.

There is more experience, time and brain work represented in the preparation of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other medicine. It is this which makes Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar in its curative power, and in the remarkable cures it effects. Give it a trial.

A Flood Predicted.

The Winnemucca Silver State says: Observing men who have lived on the Humboldt in Elko county for over twenty years predict that there will not be a dam left in the river east of Golconda after the June freshet next summer. There is more snow on the Upper Humboldt than at any time since 1868, and when it melts it will fill the river bottom from sagebrush to sagebrush.

If Big Meadows farmers wish to make the Humboldt Lake as large as it was before the dam was blown up, all they have to do is to replace the dam and nature will furnish the water.

A Storm-Belaguered People.

The Homer Index says: "We hanker for a mail. We want to know what is being done by outside barbarians. We are a storm belaguered people." The GAZETTE offers its warmest sympathy to Captain Townsend, and wishes he might enjoy another season of city life, with fair young maidens vying with each other to share the favors of the good Captain as he sits by the stove. Brace up, Jim, and take your liquor straight, or come to Reno and enjoy our cold snap.

Townsend in Trouble.

The Homer Index says: On New Year morning the Index office was full of snow. The door had been blown off its hinges during the night. It required the labor of two men for half a day to rectify things. It is really a gay place in which to print a newspaper during a winter like this, but then it is never very cold, you know. The thermometer seldom falls more than an inch or two below zero.

Harvesting Ice.

The Silver State says: John Diehl has commenced harvesting ice and is getting his ice houses filled with crystal blocks of "hard water" eight inches thick. This year ice can be hauled on sleds from the river to where it is to be stored.

ADVICE FROM BELOW STAIRS.

"Bridget, I would give all my wealth for half of your health."

"Sure, ma'am, you need only give $5, for that's the price of six bottles of 'V. V. S.' as the boys call it. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will make you as strong as me, ma'am."

Mrs. J. Barron, of 149 Seventh street, San Francisco, writes: "I have been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla with immense benefit. It is perfectly splendid to build up nervous, run-down and worn out women." Mrs. Fred Loy, of 27 Ellis street, Mrs. O. Werner of 236, Jerry street, and hundreds of others relate the same experience with this pure vegetable Sarsaparilla.

HE WANTED TO KNOW.

He wanted to know how God made the world. Out or nuthin' at all. W'y He didn't make it square, like a block or a brick. Stid er rou'n, like a ball. How it managed to stay held up in the air. All sich kin' er things, above an' below, He wanted to know.

He wanted to know who Cain had for a wife. An' if the two fit. Who hit Billy Patterson over the head. An' if he ever got hit. An' where Moses wuz 'en the candle went out. An' if others were lit. If he couldn't fin' these out, w'y his cake wuz all lough.

An' he wanted to know.

An' he wanted to know 'bout original sin; An' about Adam's fall; If the snake hopped aroun on the end of his tail. Bred doomed to crawl. An' wat would hev happened if Adam hadn't eat the apple at all. These er kind er things seemed ter fill him 'th wuz.

An' he wanted to know.

An' he wanted to know w'y some folks wuz good. An' some folks wuz mean. W'y some folks wuz middlin', an' some folks wuz fat. An' some folks wuz lean. An' some folks were very learned an' wise. An' some folks dern green. All these kin' er things they troubled him so That he wanted to know.

An' so he fired conundrums aroun, An' he asked the questions right over ag'in. An' his nice crop er taters did rot in the groun. An' his cabbage wouldn't grow. For it took so much time to ask questions like these.

He'd no time to hoe; He wanted to know if these things were so, Course he wanted to know.

An' his cattle they died, an' his horses grew sick. 'Cause they didn't hev no hay; An' his critters pressed him to pay up his bills. But he'd no time to pay.

For he had to go rou'n askin' questions, you know. By night an' by day; He'd no time to work, for they troubled him so. An' he wanted to know.

An' now in the poor house he travels aroun' In the same way. An' asks the same questions right over ag'in. By night an' by day. But he hasn't found no feller can answer 'em 'em.

An' he's 'er an' he's gray. But these same ol' conundrums they trouble him so. That he still wants to know.

COOKING UNDER WATER.

It's Easy Enough to Do When You Know How.

A Diving Expert Relates an Extraordinary Fish Story Which Rather Takes the Cake; Also the Other Fellow's Hundred Dollars.

"I believe," said George W. Fuller, the veteran diving expert, in conversation with a Boston Globe writer a few days ago, "that I was the first man to ever catch a fish, dress it and cook it, all under water, and then bring it to the surface in a perfectly palatable and appetizing shape."

"How did you come to do that?" questioned the writer.

"It was this way," replied Mr. Fuller, sitting back in his chair and half closing his eyes, as if to recall all the circumstances of this most curious of diving experiments. "You see, I had been talking with some of the boys, telling them about what I could do, and all that, and if I remember rightly, I made the assertion that I could catch a fish, dress it, cook it under water and bring it up to the surface in good shape for eating, without wetting it a particle. Of course every body was incredulous, and one man, who was even more incredulous than the rest, offered to bet me $100 that I could not do it. Of course I felt sure that I could, and, though it looks strange to you now, you can see how it was done after I have finished my story. As I thought I had a pretty good show of winning, and the man seemed very anxious to bet, I put up my money, and when asked when I wanted the affair to come off I set a day about a week ahead, as I had some preparations to make. The date was agreeable to all parties concerned, and other things were looked of. So the days went by until I finally had a couple of days to wait for the trial. Then, taking a couple of my men, I got a boat and went quite a distance out into the harbor, stopping over a place where I thought I should be able to catch a fish easily. I had brought a weighted barrel along with me and my diving suit. The barrel we then proceeded to sink, having the open side downward. Putting on my suit I went to the bottom and securely fastened the barrel to some rocks with ropes to make sure that it would neither rise to the surface nor float away. Mind you, I had the barrel raised about three feet from the bottom, and at this time, as a matter of course, it was filled with water. After I had secured it I stooped down and crawled up into it, standing erect upon the bottom. When I crawled in the barrel was full of water, but as I staid under there minute after minute, the water began to be driven out little by little, this being caused by the air which was issuing from my escape valve rising to the top of the barrel, and not being able to go any farther it, as a matter of course, kept forcing the water down. Soon my head was entirely out of water, and soon my chest was out.

"Then I unscrewed my helmet and stood in the air under the barrel. As I was being fed constantly from the pump above, the water lowered until there was not a drop in the barrel, and I was standing in only three feet of water. I had one of my patent lanterns with me, so I could see what I was doing, and small taking a hammer, nails and a small board which I had brought down with me, I proceeded to nail up a small shelf at one side of the barrel of the height so that when my lantern was set upon it it would be convenient for me to look down on the top of it. This done, I put on my helmet, got down from under the barrel and went up to the surface once more. All my arrangements were complete, and all I had to do now was to wait patiently for the day of the trial to come off.

"It dawned at last, bright and clear, and a considerable party of gentlemen embarked with us to either see this, as they supposed, great feat performed, or to see me fail in my attempt to make good my assertion. I impressed it upon the mind of the party who had bet against me that to perform the feat it was very essential that I should go under water to a place where I could be reasonably sure of catching a fish, and he left it with me to select the place. Of course I steered for the spot where I had the barrel anchored, and stopping near where I thought it would be, I put on my suit and prepared for the descent. I took with me my lantern, a small stew-pan, pepper, salt, etc., and my fish-hook.

"By the way, you never saw a man catch fish under water, did you? Well, it is quite a simple operation. You don't really use any hook at all, but a long line with a big sail needle on the end of it. When you are on the bottom and see a fish, good care must be taken to get behind him. Then cautiously edging up to him, you make a quick jab with the needle, and if you are a good shot your fish is caught. Then all you have to do is to push him up on the string, which must, of course, be knotted on the end, and you are ready for another one. It was one of these needles that I had, and I was very successful in not having to occupy much time in catching my fish, for I had scarcely struck bottom and got my bearings when I saw one directly ahead of me, and I succeeded in getting him impaled upon my needle in short order. Then I crawled under the barrel, and setting my lantern on the shelf, waited for the water to lower. I had not long to wait, however, and soon my helmet was hanging on a nail which I had hammered into the side of the barrel for that purpose, and I was busily cleaning the fish with my jack-knife, which I forgot to mention I had brought with me for that purpose. This done, I unscrewed the top of the lantern, which, as you know, is quite a large one and has a big flame. This lantern is fed by a small air pipe from above, the same as a human being is, and as I could live and breathe freely under the barrel, of course the lantern could burn brightly, too. Placing the pan, which fitted exactly into the top of the lantern, over the flame, I placed the fish in it and he was soon frying away at a great rate, while I soon made him palatable with salt and pepper.

"After it was well fried I shut off the blaze in the lamp and screwed on the cover, leaving the screw-pan and the fish inside, where they were sure to keep perfectly dry. Then, putting on my helmet, I got out from under the barrel and gave the signal to be pulled up. I had been gone only a few minutes, and the people thought, as a matter of course, that I had come up to say that I could not catch the fish, never dreaming that I had caught it, dressed it and cooked it already. They were very much surprised when, on taking off the lamp, I showed them the fish steaming hot and well cooked. Of course, like all other tricks, it's easy after one knows how to do it, but I made a little money by being the first to think of it."

A LANDLORD'S REVENGE.

An Anecdote Which Is Worth Reading Even If It Is a Chestnut.

George Fair, of the Haymarket Theatre, said to a Chicago Tribune man the other day: Did you ever hear of M. M. Towne, of Harvard? I heard a good story about him when I was up the country on my vacation. You may have heard it, but it was new to me. In 1880 W. D. Hoard, now Governor of Wisconsin, was editing a newspaper at Port Atkinson. He sent word to Towne, who was the landlord at Harvard, that the dairymen of the Northwest would hold their annual convention in Harvard and that he had better prepare to entertain them. Towne immediately sent out letters to his brother landlords in neighboring towns asking them to lend him what spare coats they had. One of the men to whom a letter was sent was Pierce, of Watertown, Wis. Pierce made the word coats read cats and sent it to Brock's Sun. In the next issue of the Sun there was a notice to the effect that Mr. Towne, of Harvard, wanted all the cats he could get by a certain date. From that time on Towne began receiving cats. One cargo consisted of eleven big felines and a yellow dog. One cat was sent all the way from Grand Haven, Mich. A man named Lute Taylor sent eleven cats in one box. The box was made in the shape of a menagerie cage, with a division. There were five cats on one side and six on the other.

Towne began scheming to get even with Pierce, Beck and Taylor. They were invited to attend the convention and accept the hospitality of Towne. Pierce and Taylor accepted. The first night they were there they had a table to themselves. There was nothing too good for them. They had different courses from the others. After dinner they were in the office, and Towne asked Pierce and Taylor how they liked the game which he served them. They were profuse in their expressions of like. Taylor said it was a new kind of game to him, but he liked it. Pierce asked what it was.

"Cat-Tom-cat," said Towne in a glee of triumph, but Pierce and Taylor took their medicine and said nothing. Towne has been trying to get even with Peck ever since, but has not succeeded.

Talk and Business.

Iterations are commonly loss of time; but there is no such gain of time as to iterate often the state of the question; for it chaseth away many a frivolous speech as it is coming forth. Long and curious speeches are as fit for dispatch as a robe or mantle with a long train is for a race. Prefaces and passages and expositions, and other speeches of reference to the person, are great wastes of time; and, though they seem to proceed of modesty, they are bravery. Yet beware of being too material when there is any impediment or obstruction in men's wills; preoccupation of mind ever requirith preface of speech, like a fomentation to make the unguent enter.

Mary Anne Under Tutition.

An exhaustless supply of patience is the most important requisite in the training of "green help." "There's a boat of yours in the drawing-room," was the style in which a housemaid announced a caller to the eldest daughter of the house a few days ago. Afterwards her mistress said to Mary Anne: "When a person calls to see any member of the family you should say: 'A gentleman to see you, ma'am or sir.' Mary Anne acquiesced quietly, but the next day when a lady called to see her mistress, she came upstairs and said: "Please m, there's a gentleman to see you, but it's a lady." The course of a lion is still on.

What the Modern Novel Is.

Here is a poetic description of many popular novels of the day:

—a book Crammed full of poisonous errors blackening every page. And utterance of trifling, second-hand Roman and old, discussed, putrid thought; And miserable incident, at war With nature, with itself and truth at war. Yet charming still the greatly readable. Till done, he tries to recollect his thought, And nothing duds but dreamy emptiness.
